No opposition to helping sick or injured workers; state compensation now includes unsound, unaffordable clauses

Is Illinois to continue its significant role in the nation's economic activity? There are many affirmative signs, but also some affirmative signs, but also some continue in today's Press-Record.

One article reflects fear that the new federal tax bill may make it difficult for Dlinois to continue as America's No. 1 state in the field of exports.

Prompt attention to the impact on small and medium industries as well as large firms might well lead to remedial Congressional action. The export issue is far too important to ignore merely because the long and difficult process of revising federal tax laws has been accomplished, a relatively rare occurrence.

Another article presents detailed background information on workmen's Another article presents detailed background information on workmen's compensation changes enacted into law in 1975 and slightly altered in 1976. To the extent that sharply-contrasting benefits could force many jobs to other states, the issue is of serious concern to all Illinois firms, workers and taxpayers. Many state legislators have defended their compensation actions with letters to constituents who had complained. Unfortunately, a lot of such explanations lack

Because Watergate manchinations were thwarted, voters truly have full power to choose their nation's leaders

Whether or not Thursday night's national debate by Presidential contenders Ford and Carter resolved all campaign issues, it serves with the contender of the kind of country in which we will be controlled to the control of the kind of country in Soviet Russia may achieve higher voting participation, but there is only one slate on the ballot and no one is allowed to directly challenge the policies or performance of incumbent Soviet leaders.

The decision as to who to support on Nov. 2 will remain a difficult choice for millions of Americans, although later debates may help clarify the strengths and weaknesses of the contrasting campaign stands.

In any event, both aspirants clearly have a chance to win, and this is a basically healthy situation. Even though many citizens feel some disenchantment and may "sit out" the election, our democratic processes remain intact and the two-party system is far from extinction:

The peril of Watergate-related federal governmental abuses was that they threatened to deprive voters of an effective role in choosing national leadership. This tragic deviation from proper citizengovernment relationships is behind us, with the memory of it likely to continue as a reminder that constant vigilance is the price of maintaining liberty.

Legislation passed Thursday evening by the General Assembly will provide another $50 million for elementary and secondary schools throughout the state. The state said Granite City schools will receive $9.800,000 instead of $9,330,000.
